Europe Faces Most Serious Situation Since World War When Italy Seizes Islands

Tri-Color Flies Over Corfu and Samos Following a Bombardment.

Balkans Are Stirring

By United Press
LONDON, Sept. 1.—Europe today faced the most menacing situation since the days preceding the World War.

Italy has now seized two Greek islands. Samos was occupied today. The tri-color flies over Corfu, following bombardment in which 15 men and women refugees were killed as they sought shelter.

The Balkans are stirring. Queen Marie of Roumania is hurrying back to Bucharest from Paris.

Jugo-Slav reservists, who are on leave, have been ordered back to their home country.

Italy plans to call up two classes of reservists. Those in London have been ordered to be prepared for a call to the colors.

The Greek legation in London declares that Greece cannot regard the bombardment of Corfu as other than an act of war.

While the chancelleries of Europe are bending every effort towards easing of the situation, which hourly becomes more critical, Premier Mussolini continues to carry forward his plans for humiliating Greece in retaliation for the murder of five Italian commissioners.

A new note was handed the Greek government today. It was stated, it was unrelenting in its demands for more than $2,000,000 indemnity, and other points set forth in the original ultimatum.

The occupation of Greek territory was characterized as "peaceful" and the hope was expressed that Greek inhabitants would do nothing that might render the occupation a more serious matter.

Allied authorities are becoming more concerned hourly. The League of Nations took up the Greeko-Italian problem this afternoon, but Italian representatives are understood to be prepared to delay the league's jurisdiction.

In this event the League can only take up such mandates as it may issue with force.

British authorities are now speculating on the possibility of requesting that British troops and ships cooperate with the League in event forcible intervention should be necessary. A strong British fleet is now in the Mediterranean.

In addition to the fleet there are now approximately 15,000 British troops with full war equipment out of munitions and stores now standing in the Near East. There are about four war strength battalions with stores and auxiliaries now in the vicinity of Malta enroute home on transports.

These troops might be diverted for necessary services.

The British government officials frankly take the attitude that they regard the League as having complete jurisdiction in the present crisis.

England is prepared to accept the League's decision. There is hope that the affair may be settled without force, but at the same time it is realized the League is facing a most exacting test. There was some doubt in British minds as to the stand France might take.

Despatches from Paris however, indicate that the French are not inclined to regard the occupation of Corfu and Samos as analogous to the occupation of the Ruhr and France may therefore be found on the side of England in support of the League's authorities.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Eight Italian planes have been placed in readiness for necessary transportation of troops, a "haste" dispatch to the Evening Star asserts. Premier Mussolini is said to be drafting an explanatory note, designating foreign powers and Greece, explaining Italy's action with respect to Greece.

Family Thrown From Beds by Explosion

By United Press

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—The home of James McNamee, on Tedrick street, was badly wrecked shortly after midnight, by an explosion of a heavy charge of dynamite placed under the front porch. The entire front of the house was shattered by the glass which broke nearby windows and aroused the entire neighborhood.

The McNamee family was thrown from their beds but none was seriously injured. McNamee is a repairman for the Pennsylvania Coal Company and according to local police has no enemies. State police arrived with bloodhounds early today but failed to pick up the trail of the dynamiters.

Anthracite Mines Idle Today As Strike Goes Into Effect; No Truce

Miners and Operators Break Off Peace Parley to Meet Wednesday.

SECRECY IS MAINTAINED

By United Press.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—With a strike of 155,000 anthracite miners at full force, the peace parley between the operators and the union broke up today and adjourned until Wednesday.

The miners and operators assured that the action is known to have been taken at the request of both sides.

Governor Pinchot and the two parties maintained absolute secrecy as to the reason for the adjournment, but it is known the two sides are completely deadlocked over the suggestion Pinchot made for settlement of their differences.

The miners and operators assured the governor, however, they would meet him again Wednesday at 2 P.M. and take up matters where they were left off. The session this morning lasted a little more than half an hour.

Meanwhile the strike will continue, Pinchot said, after the conference was over, that the question of calling off the strike or signing a truce had not been mentioned by either party. "The situation remains at status quo," the governor said. He refused to discuss the meeting further.

Both sides made arrangements to leave town immediately. Lewis is going to Philadelphia and Thomas Keeney, president of District No. 7, left for Paton, Pa., where a big bi-lateral union meeting will be held Labor Day. Pinchot is scheduled to address the Paton meeting.

The operators also broke up, some going to Philadelphia.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—A growing feeling of dissatisfaction perturbed miners and operator headquarters here today as 155,000 men in the anthracite fields left their jobs, and the peace conferences attempted new negotiations. Both sides met with the governor in the same conference room at 10 A.M. today.

While the miners and operators are caucusing today prior to meeting Governor Pinchot, who is active as mediator in the dispute, both sides privately expressed pessimism as to the outcome of the parley.

The miners feel that some progress has been made in the five hours and a half conference of Friday. The operators, on the other hand, feel that the governor has been putting pressure to make his own political points. The operators indicated they will not accept any compromises which might entrap the position they took at the beginning of the negotiations a week ago at Atlantic City.

The governor, it was learned, has agreed to address a meeting of soft coal miners at Paton, Pa., Monday.

Miner representatives, the district presidents of Scranton, Pittsville and Hazelton, are also slated to speak before mass meetings in their respective districts on the holidays.

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 1.—Not a shot turned in the mines and collieries of the anthracite region today.

Practically every one of the 155,000 hard coal miners obeyed the strike order which went into effect at midnight and silence greeted the ear this morning where usually the air is filled with shrills of mine whistles, calling the men to work.

"Company men"—monthly employees—and maintenance men allowed by the union to remain on the job, were at work this morning, putting the finishing touches on preparations to close the collieries. Nules which have not seen daylight for a year are being hoisted out of the mines and the last cars of coal in the breakers were being loaded.

According to Mr. Smith there has been an average of 30 candidates reporting every afternoon this week for practice. New football equipment has arrived and will be given out some time in the near future.

JAPAN SUFFERS HEAVY DAMAGE IN EARTHQUAKE

By United Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The Japanese city of Yokohama is on fire following a terrific earthquake crash according to a wireless dispatch received here today by the Radio Corporation of America from the Japanese naval radio station at Iwaki.

OSAKA, Japan, Sept. 1.—Practically all of Japan was shaken violently for more than an hour by an earthquake of almost unprecedented power. Severe damage was suffered in Tokyo. Railway and telegraphic communications were disrupted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The administration will make no move in the coal situation so long as there exists the basis for further conferences along the line laid out by Governor Pinchot. The government plan for emergency distribution will be held in abeyance. It was stated, if the miners and operators exhibit a willingness to continue negotiation

ALLIES FEAR ITALY'S MOVE MAY RESULT IN GRAVE COMPLICATIONS

By United Press.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Grave complications with the little extent are feared if Italy retains a foothold on Corfu which is the key to the Adriatic. Its occupation means the bottling up of Jugo-Slavia.

A telegraphic communication is on the way to Paris from Jugo-Slavia pointing out the gravity of the situation in the event Italy decides to hold the islands.

In well informed quarters here it is believed the great powers will intervene diplomatically, pointing out to Rome the danger to the peace of Europe in the present situation. Great secrecy is being maintained in all chancelleries regarding exchanges of semi-official sources today outlined the attitude of the French government for the present as one of "watchful waiting" in the hope that Italy would exercise moderation. It was declared France does not see any similarity between the occupation of Corfu and the Ruhr.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The foreign minister of Great Britain and the premier of France conferred today presumably with regard to the Italian-Greek situation. Lord Curzon representing England and Poincaré representing France met at the latter's office here.

New Students in City Schools Are To Enroll Monday

By United Press.

B. B. Smith, superintendent of the city schools, today asked that all students entering the Connellsville Public Schools for the first time this year, other than those who will be enrolled in Grade No. 1, report at the High School building Monday for registration.

The registration of new students has been going on for several days. It is desired that all three newcomers be enrolled before the opening of school Tuesday as there will be so many other details to attend to at that time that the registration of outside or strange students cannot be given the same attention.

Klan's Notice to Members Says "Come Prepared" to Scottdale for Big Parade

Expect 25,000 Members to Participate in Monster Demonstration.

BEGINS AT 8 O'CLOCK

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Sept. 1.—Although authorities here do not anticipate any trouble at tonight's demonstration by the Ku Klux Klan here, there was ample evidence in the notices sent out by the Klan that the organization itself was not so sure everything would be quiet.

"Come prepared and remember this is the town that the Knights of Columbus held up Klanmen and stole their robes returning from Uniontown," reads one paragraph in the hand bills passed out on the streets last evening, both in Scottdale and Connellsville.

There was a strong rumor abroad in the Mill Town yesterday that the demonstration had been called off but the appearance of the notices on the streets later proved that the plans had not been abandoned.

The notice says the Klan will station sentinels wearing a white ribbon on the left arm at cross roads to give strangers directions. Cars of Klan members will have a white cross on the windshield and also on the rear curtain.

Attention is called to the fact that there were 35,000 Klansmen in the Wilkinsburg demonstration and Scottdale is urged to beat Wilkinsburg. "Let's make this the largest demonstration in Pennsylvania," is the message.

The parade, according to the notice, is scheduled to move at 8 o'clock sharp. Each member of the Klan is assessed 75 cents and will register at the grounds.

The notice is signed by James A. Miller, exalted cyclops, and George D. Kelly, kligrapp.

Remarks in Scottdale yesterday did not indicate any open opposition to the demonstration. Burgess Schaefer, interviewed last night said he was not expecting trouble but was prepared for it if such an emergency arose. Scottdale has only two policemen in the state constabulary and the sheriff of Westmoreland county will be on hand to assist in preserving peace. If trouble such as has broken out at Carnegie Pa. and Feltz Ambrey, N.J. should occur.

It was said a big order for bread had been given Scottdale bakers. One man was understood to have been asked for all he could bake but he estimated his maximum supply would be 1,400 loaves.

A number of curious persons, many anticipating witnessing a possible clash, have announced their intention of coming to Scottdale this evening.

These acts the members of the board claimed constituted incompetency and negligence.

Jensen declared that he acted in good faith and did what he believed to be best for the Luzerne township schools. He stated that he had the authority to issue the promotion certificates and believed that he was helping the schools.

When the Luzerne township school board who had elected Jensen for its 1923-24 term resigned, Jensen refused to follow their action. It was then that the new board, after an investigation, preferred charges and ordered a hearing.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT

"MODERN MARRIAGE"—Starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, will be shown on Monday and Tuesday at this theatre.

It is a picture replete with emotional clashes and physical thrills and is played throughout in the richest, most sumptuous environment. "Modern Marriage" is a society drama of life in New York and its vicinity. Quick in pace, tense in action and powerful in climax, it bids fair to stand out as one of the most satisfying pictures of the year, to say nothing of the importance attaching to it as a means of bringing back two favorites to a loyal public.

Especially is the picture plentifully sprinkled with thrills—not forced ones but the logical outcome of the dramatic situations behind them. The first, begins when Davies Varley (played by Miss Bayne) goes to the apartment of a man to get letters she has foolishly written. Her husband also goes, unknown to her, to demand satisfaction of the man; while there is still another caller, a girl of whom the protagonist has grown weary. The upshot of this is learned in the newspaper which announces the murder of the man in his apartment. The news is brought to the Varleys in the midst of a reception at their home.

THE ROARING

"DADDY"—Presenting Jackie Coogan in the role of a "tiny street urchin," will open on Monday at this theatre for a three day attraction.

With his appearance in "Daddy," little Jackie Coogan about completes the cycle of human emotions, for in this newest picture play, written for their boy by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan, the youthful genius is called upon, in one scene, to sound the depths of tragic notes. It was the performance of this role and scene that provoked from Will H. Hays his tribute of tears and the remark that "the world needs more pictures like this."

While "Daddy" sounds depths of tragedy and pathos, it is mainly devoted to the surface of smiles and laughter. Jackie, after every discouragement, plods on, and after every misfortune finds comfort; in the end he achieves complete happiness. If complete happiness is ever found.

Nobody better than Jackie's parents could write a story for him, calculated to explore every angle of the boy's versatile genius. In "Peek's Bad Boy" the implausibility of the kid was specially revealed; in "Trouble" the note of pathos was injected with the moratorium that is Jackie's birthright.

In "My Boy" humor abounded and in "Oliver! Twiss," the courage, tenderness and nobility of an upright youth were revealed. In "Daddy," the capacity of Jackie Coogan as a tragic emotionalist is so superbly disclosed that his work in this picture will forever stamp him as one of the greatest actors of all time, regardless of age!

THE ORPHEUM

HOLLYWOOD, with a cast of thirty real stars, in addition to fifty screen celebrities appearing in its scenes, will be on view Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week at this theatre. The attraction is said to be one of the most remarkable pictures ever filmed in this country. Those who will be seen in "Hollywood," besides the unknown players chosen for principal roles, to retain the illusion of outsiders, in the studio and in Hollywood, include Cecil B. DeMille, Pola Negri, Thomas Meighan, William S. Hart, Agnes Ayres, Jack Holt, Walter Hiers, Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, Nita Naldi, Betty Compson, Lila Lee, May McAvoy, Theodore Kosloff, Lois Wilson and others.

These players will be seen by the folks from the midwest who come to the western film capital to see the studios, hotels, boulevards and other attractions.

The story of "Hollywood" is based on a novella, "Hollywood," written by Frank Condon. Paramount has pictured this story, which deals with a girl who tried to get into the movies with a supporting cast of players that included almost every star, director and player of magnitude known to the moving picture world.

Choose Wall Paper for Your Home With Care

When you choose the wall paper for your home, select it with special care, advised a writer in the Milwaukee Sentinel. If you are a voter, you will find that many apartments are fortunately decorated in good taste.

The five-room apartment or house always includes bath and sometimes a sun room, in addition to the living room, two bedrooms and a kitchen.

Sometimes these rooms are already papered and the pattern is simply atrocious. With this condition, visualizing furniture settings and that "at home" feeling is utterly impossible.

To avoid these wall-paper jolts, if you redecorate, use care in the selection of patterns and colors.

Important Question

A man was arrested on the charge of robbing another of his watch and chain. It was said that he had thrown a bus over his victim's head, strangled and robbed him. There was as little evidence, however, that the judge quickly said:

"Discharged!"

The prisoner stood still in the dock, awaiting trial, being given his freedom as soon as

"You're discharged," repeated the judge. "You can go. You are free."

Still no word from the prisoner, who stood staring at the judge.

"Don't you understand? You have been acquitted. Get out!" shouted the judge.

"Well," stammered the man, "do I have to give him back his watch and chain?"

New Fall Coats Are to
Be Near Ankle-Length

One of the chief factors in the new aspect of the fall coat, as distinguished
from that of last year, is the length.
Fifty inches, with others dropping to 48 inches, is regarded as the proper length, or in other words, a length that is slightly above the ankle.

The height of the erect chin collar adds inches to the general length and emphasized the straight silhouette.

The straight silhouette is not, considered altogether essential, for in many instances a flared skirt section extending from hip to hip, across the back, is used.

Dark-Colored Suit Is Favored for Travelling

With the wanderlust season of the year here a woman who makes a habit of sailing parties of travelers in summer took occasion to give her ideas about clothes for the traveler.
"We are made to be sold in this day," she says, "but aristocratic wardrobe have gone the way of the windmill. Women have learned to travel light, but this necessitates a wise choice of the things they do take.
This depends on where they are going, but a few fundamental rules may be laid down for all."

"For the railroad journey a woman has a choice between a frock and top-coat and a tailored suit. If it is a short journey, a blouse with white frills is charming with the tailored suit, but for more than a day, the blouse should be of the same color, but a lighter material than the suit.
The gown for traveling in the summer is always of a lightweight material in a dark color. The white frills may or may not be added. The hat must be small with a narrow brim; if any, the sheath must be comfortable. Lowheeled oxfords are preferred and mercerized hose, shaped in the wearing without a seam to gap suddenly and unexpectedly, are chosen. either a beige shade or a color to match the suit or frock. The oxfords with the stockings, a white lighter are very smart."

"Hand-surfaced serge and the modern silks are good materials for the traveling costume, and sometimes cotton is used with good effect. I met a French woman the other day making a short journey in a black sheath frock with a little hat of black felt, that had a lattice-work crown attached, hat stripes and green ribbon."

Must Use Care When

Tinting Your Walls

In using the various commercialized finishes for tinting or coloring walls, a few precautions must be taken. First the walls must be clean, wiped off well with a wall brush or a broom, having a piece of wool or cotton material tied over it. This is to remove dust and keep the finish from looking muddy. Prepare the finish according to instructions on the package. It will look much darker when first mixed than when dry on the wall. It may be made more red by the instructions direct and is more easily put on if a fifth more water is used.

To put it on a ceiling, use a whitewash brush, and on the handle tie a piece of a tin can, a hole cut through for the brush handle. This is to keep the drip from the worker and the floor.
Even a rag wrapped around the brush handle helps in this way. Use a fairly long stroke in brushing on, and do not brush it out as one does with paint. If brushed too much it is uneven and does not cover the surface.
Tinting is very inexpensive, and can be applied to rough or smooth walls, and even over a plain wall paper.

New Fall Coats Are to

Be Near Ankle-Length

One of the chief factors in the new
aspect of the fall coat, as distinguished
from that of last year, is the length.
Fifty inches, with others dropping
to 48 inches, is regarded as the proper length, or in other words, a length that is slightly above the ankle.

The height of the erect chin collar
adds inches to the general length and
emphasized the straight silhouette.

The straight silhouette is not, considered altogether essential, for in many instances a flared skirt section extending from hip to hip, across the
back, is used.

NOTHING LIKE IT SINCE HALLOWEEN.

The instructions given to the members of the Ku Klux Klan in the handbills distributed here and at Scottsdale, convey the impression that trouble is anticipated during the progress of the demonstration and parade at Scottsdale tonight. Otherwise it would not have seemed necessary to caution the knights to "come prepared."

In view of this implied threat there is placed upon the people, not affiliated with this organization, the obligation to do everything possible to prevent disorder. Having always been peaceable and law abiding the people of Scottsdale can, it is believed, be depended upon to exercise the proper restraint under the circumstances.

Much the weightier obligation must rest, however, upon the promoters of this demonstration. They have full knowledge of the fact that similar displays have provoked trouble elsewhere, hence they must realize that all responsibility in the present instance must rest upon them.

It is hoped that no overt acts of any kind will be committed but that the spectators will get all the enjoyment possible out of witnessing a parade of the grotesquely gowned but sadly dejected knights. Nothing resembling it has occurred since Halloween when everybody is supposed to dress up foolish and act the part.

LITTLE WONDER PUBLIC IS GROWING TIRED.

Public comment on Governor Pinchot's proposal to the miners and operators as a means of preventing a strike in the anthracite region has been withheld largely out of deference to the author's wishes that discussion be delayed until the two interested parties had signified their respective attitudes on the proposition. Now that the miners have given what they term "a provisional acceptance," and the operators have flatly rejected the main feature of the plan, there is opportunity for greater freedom in making an analysis.

That these views of the proposition have been taken show very clearly that it is less equitable and fair than it appeared to be. It possesses these features because unconditional acceptance by both parties would have left the public, the great third party, out of consideration altogether. The miners would not have been required to surrender a single demand other than a reduction from 20 to 18 per cent in a wage increase. On the other hand the operators would have been required to concede practically everything—paying higher wages and shortening hours, thereby adding to production costs which the ultimate consumer, not the operators, would be obliged to pay.

"His (Governor Pinchot's) is not an attempt at settlement," declares the Philadelphia Ledger, "but a one-sided compromise that settles nothing. Its background and basis are not economic but political as who he runs may run. In the long run it will be against the public interest."

Except the time comes when the public should be considered in these settlements that settle nothing? Is the public forever to be shoudered aside while men and operators battle for the profits that come out of the public pocket? The governor gives much consideration to profits.

We used to have sympathy on the poor operator, poor middleman or poor retailer. They are getting along. Nor have the miners shown they are entitled to a wage raise. Their wage figures are high and they should seek rather to maintain than increase them. The mine country is prosperous, and would be amazingly so if the strike fever in its blood would cool. The bad old days of starving miners are gone from the coal country.

Most public interest always be ignored? The interests of both miner and operator are secondary to those of the public. Both are public servants. They are working for the public. Without the public there would be neither dividends nor wages.

We are not concerned about the operator, for his sins are many. Nor the minor, who never is satisfied. The governor's plan takes them into account, but in his parts proposal he is forgetting, in great part, the true interests of the Great Third Party.

Little wonder it that the public is growing tired and disgusted because its only right or privilege in industrial disputes is always to pay its costs suffer the hardships and inconvenience incident to strikes!

August Treasury Balance, HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—The state treasury department today announced a balance of $16,624,390.15 in all funds at the close of the month of August.

THE TYRANT.

You domineering little tyke,
 Carefully grabbing what you like,
 And making plain by grunt and shriek
 The glittering baubles that you seek,
 Have you conceived the notion that You're rightfully an autocrat?

At one year old, how you bugan
 To think you rule the moon and sun?
 Must I your father, give to you
 My precious watch of gold to chew
 And calm my say. That's what it is For the times you hand it on that it is?

Because, you will, must we obey?
 Must I put down my book of say
 Do this or that to suit your whim?
 Look here, you chubby cherubim
 Will you know, however you will
 We grown-ups have some rights as well?

Well, well, if you are going to cry
 Of course I'll put the volume by
 And here's my watch for you once more—
 Take it and thrc it on the floor
 I guess you're right, in every case
 A baby always rules the place.

A PLEA FOR GROWTH.

Let me grow taller with the years
 Above the petty things of pride
 Let me look out and far and wide
 Beyond the underbrush of spite.
 The bickerings over wrong and right,
 The less or gain of selfish strife
 And let me see when I grow tall
 High purpose glowing through it all.

Let me grow bigger with the years,
 Too big to be the petty thing
 Which for advantage leaves a sting,
 Too big to snore at simple worth
 And honest, toll and gentle mirth
 Too big to hold the world am
 To try to hold my place with shame Too big, if I possess a for
 To strike at him a cowardly blow

Let me grow wiser through the years
 In wisdom and sense and truth,
 Wiser in knowledge of thy truth,
 Wiser in living. Let me learn
 That whatsoever I may turn,
 Some beauty glows, that wealth nor fame
 Cannot surpass an honest name
 And let this growth in wisdom be Such as to make a man of me

ABE MARTIN

On Bein' Close Mouthed

BEIN' close mouthed is a burly good trait, an' if you're an ignoramus it's almost a godsend. Lots of ignorant people git purty well down near the front by keepin' still an' noncommittal. Sometimes a feller that realy don't know nothin' will git it down in his community an' be electe to some good office—then, after it's too late, it leaks out. Loudmouthed people often think they're goin' to be popular, but they ain't. They're only feared. Of course, a loud mouthed feller stands on th' question of th' day, but he's usually wrong, just as loud, roarin' orators are wrong, as well as convincing. Th' evasive feller may be gencely ignorant, or he may be afraid of hurtin' his business, but he's generally regarded as bein' deep-thoughtful. Then th' fellow that looks calmly an' freely, takin' the poplar view of a question, an' carefully keepin' his true convictions an' actions t' himself. Then, too, ther's th' quiet, intelligent feller that only cuts loose when human endeavour causes him to be a virtuous ignoramus. Folk that have got sense enough to keep still, hafta be ignorant after all. But th' office seeker an' th' business man "who studies t' please" are th' world offenders when it comes t' bein' evasive. When Park Whitely went home full of killin' his wife an' children, we tried t' draw out Cal Philhart, who at that particular time had his eye on th' deputy chairmanship, but all he'd say was, "I'll have t' hear both sides o' th' story." We asked Al Mootz, semi-annual cannyoneer for Mootz, semi-annual cannyoneer for sheriff, what he thought o' th' wierd summer, an' he replied that he hadn't heard it had no good, an' bad points. Druggist Ike Lark wouldn't tell me how his mother wuz when I asked him. He just replied, "Don't forget the opening o' our new soda fountain." He's so afraid of hurtin' his business. We asked Grocer Lon Moon about a certain provision o' our national Constitution, this morning, an' he said, after some urgin', "O' course a seller in my position who depends on th' patronage o' ever'body can't alius express himself just as he'd like to. Have you sold your car yet?" But there's one good thing about loud mouthed people—they give us some warnin'.

Oldsmobile Four's recent accomplishment in climbing three hundred of the country's hardest test hills has deep significance for every motorist.

These tests prove the amazing power of the Oldsmobile Four engine. But a powerful engine such as this can function only in a chassis built proportionately strong. Every vital chassis feature of the Oldsmobile Four is therefore built oversize for strength.

Drivers of the Oldsmobile Four buy not only great power and hill climbing ability, but a staunchness of construction and superiority of materials which insure long life and satisfying performance.

The Vegetable Problem.
One Mother Says:
I never make my child eat things of strong flavor, such as onions or onions, which may be distasteful to her, but I do insist that she eat nutritious vegetables. I explain what each does for her and how important it is. From this she started a game her own which I took up. She always calls spinach "iron," carrots "complication," and so forth.

School Days
by Grace E. Hull

There's a land of level prairie
Where the bobwhite's call is heard,
And the song birds hold high carnival each morn;
Where a zig-zag fence outlines the road,
Most rakish and absurd,
As it follows past the fields of waving corn;

There's a singer on the topmost rail

A-trilling out his lay

To his haughty, muffed-up lady sitting nigh,

Time on time I've paused to listen

And to watch his loving way,

And afar I'd catch a rival's raucous cry.

Trudging onward down the beaten road
Made hard by driving rain,

I have listened to those songsters o'er and o'er,

Till I'd reach the old brown schoolhouse

And be robbed of their refrain

When the teacher closed the clumsy, creaking door,

Now, the years have brought me many a tune,

Sung in a thousand keys,

And I've tried to get the "cultured" view and sense,

But know I never yet have heard

Such music on the breeze

As the meadow lark trilled from that old rail fence.

SACRIFICE BY SORREL PETE

Rancher on Western Prairie Marries Cranky Geek to Oblige His Old Chum.

In the base of his ranch house on a western prairie, Pete Parker—known as Sorrel Pete—laid when his old chum, Mac Towles, rods up the trail "Whoop! Shouted Pete." "Just look who's here! Haven't set eyes on you since you saved my life back yonder."

"No," agreed Mac; "and speaking of that, I'm here right now to remind you of the promise you made then—but I'm not afraid I'm asking too much."

"She, I'll bet you ain't, no such thing. What is it? Come, right out with it."

"Well, my wife and I want you to come over and marry our cook."

"Just listen to that! She awful homely-looking!"

"Not so bad."

"Kin she cook?"

"Pete, she's the worst-tempered woman that ever tackled a rolling-pin. My wife don't dare go into the kitchen when the cook isn't feeling amiable and I wouldn't bank her, either. And she won't let us discharge her; we've tried that, but she just simply wouldn't have it. Our only hope is marrying her off, and we thought of you—but I guess the sacrifice is too much to ask."

"Sacrifice nothin'!" shouted Pete. "I'll hike right home with you and marry the gal immediate, if she'll say the word. Things have been pecky here late; no fights nor nothing, and anyhow, Sorrel Pete never goes back on a promise. If an old chum that saved my cranny life at the risk of his own makes a pint of me marrying a cranky cook, I'll do it. Come on!"—Exchange.

TROWBRIDGE AND QUILL PEN

Author of "Darius Green and His Flying Machine" Once a School Master.

J. T. Trowbridge, author of "Darius Green and His Flying Machine," was in his early life once a "school master" in Lockport, N. Y. In those days quill pens were in use, and during the half hour given to the writing lesson the prevailing allusion was broken by the scratching of nibs, and the frequent appeal, "Mind my pen, Master! Please mind my pen!" Mr. Trowbridge says in a book on his own life, entitled "My Own Story."

"Skill in pen-handling was one of the teacher's indispensable accomplishments; he was likewise required to write the learner's copy. More drudgery much of this was, and it would have been intolerable to my youth and inexperience and sensitive nervous-sanguine temperament; but for the double necessity of doing my duty to those under my charge, and of earning my humble salary—sixteen dollars a month that season. Yet the pleasure in some of my work atoned for much of the annoyance attending the rest."

The Problem of Eye Health

In a very important one. It applies to all classes of people of all ages and both sexes.

It is known that most eyes are far from normal so that this subject should have a direct appeal to thousands who never give it a thought until they are really forced to it. By rights EVERYONE should have their eyes examined so that if a defect in vision is present, it can be given the necessary attention before it is allowed to go too far. Too many keep putting it off until they cannot be made to see normally. Some eyes are in such shape that all that glasses will do is improve the vision. We cannot promise perfect vision in every case but what we do promise is the best vision possible in the circumstances, and that is a distinct advantage to the patient. The person who uses judgment in looking after his eyes is more assured of good vision and comfort in later years than the person who does not think of his eye welfare and just "buys a pair of glasses" where he thinks he gets them the cheapest.

We use no drops nor drugs in our examination. Modern instruments and appliances make it unnecessary.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"UNBLAZED TRAILS," with Richard Hatton in one of the best roles of his screen career, provides splendid entertainment today at this theatre. Hatton, in his two delineations, first as the trusted and humble secretary of a prominent business head and second as the revengeful successor who has served a penitentiary term as the result of a crime committed by his employer's son, of which he was accused, offers some portrayals and carries with ease some of the difficult situations with which he is confronted. The work of Miss Rich is the beautiful young daughter of the steel magnate, is soft and well placed. Her voice is very pleasing and she is exquisite in some of her elaborate gowns.

The Soisson

"THE RAPIDS," showing today at this theatre, presents Harry Morey, supported by an all star cast, in the title role.

The average fan, as well as the business man, will find all sorts of interest in this production, especially those scenes that show the interior of the pulp mills and iron foundries. To the lay mind Little is known about how paper is made and where and how we get our iron for buildings. The interior of these two mammoth building enterprises has been brought into the story in such a way as to add materially to the interest. In fact, it is considered, by some, that these scenes are really a feature in itself, inasmuch as it shows the making of pulp from the time the wood in tree form enters the plant until it is turned out as paper.

The Orpheum

"THE PURPLE HIGHWAY," starring Madge Kennedy, Paramount star, is the leading attraction today at this theatre.

Miss Kennedy has the role of April Blair, a stay-at-home for Artistic Pictures. Little she needs. Edgar Craig, in reality Edgar Prentiss, son of the founder of the institution and a failure at playwriting. Then, there is Joe Remond, an accomplished violinist. It is through April that they leave the home and again tackle the world in search of their long-desired success.

Edgar writes an acceptable play for which Joe writes the musical score, April becoming a great star by her singing therein. She accepts the attentions of Dudley Quail, a wretched waster. April seems to forget that she owes everything to Edgar and Joe.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week "Hollywood," presenting 60 stars, will be shown.

India certainly do not have to worry with their children after they have become of school-age, for classes begin at 6 o'clock in the morning. At 9 o'clock there is an hour for breakfast and at 2 o'clock an hour for dinner. Then the pupils go back to school until evening. Very often they have no books or pencils or paper. The teachers write the letters in the sand on the floor and each boy copies the letters on the sand before him. There are some larger and better schools in India, particularly in Kashmir where boys are being trained in athletics and ethics as well as in ordinary academic work. The 800 pairs of shoes piled before the doorway of the school in Srinagar bear witness to the number of bare-footed lads who are sitting at their desks inside the building.

High School Announces Grid Schedule; No Game Arranged With Scottsdale

Mill Towners Did Not Care to Entertain Cokers There This Year.

ALL AT HOME BUT ONE

The football schedule for the Connellsville High School has been completed. The 11 games scheduled beginning on Saturday, September 22, and ending on Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

One notable fact about the schedule this year is the absence of the Scottsdale High School. While it had been whispered that Scottsdale would not schedule Connellsville this fall it was not really definitely known until the schedule was announced to the public.

It is understood that because of the unfortunate ending of the game last year, when Scottsdale left the field after a dispute over the decision of the referee, the Mill Town school heads felt they did not deserve to have the teams meet this fall.

The season opens with Youngwood. It will take some rapid seasoning to get the Cokers in line for the task that lies ahead but as a whole the boys are pleased with the line-up of teams. Local youths have never had the desire to play "set-ups" and feel that one or two victories against worthy opponents are far better than an unblemished record against second-raters.

The season will end on Thanksgiving Day with the Dunbar Township High School aggregation. The schedule follows:

Saturday, September 22—Youngwood High at Connellsville.
Saturday, September 29—Duquesne Univ., H. S. at Connellsville.
Saturday, October 6—Washington High at Connellsville.
Saturday, October 13—Johnstown High at Connellsville.
Saturday, October 20—Latrobe High at Connellsville.
Saturday, October 27—McKeesport High at Connellsville.
Saturday, November 3—Indiana High at Connellsville.
Saturday, November 10—or Monday, November 12—Monessen High at Connellsville.
Friday, November 16—Dunbar High at Dunbar.
Saturday, November 24—Greensburg High at Connellsville.
Thursday, November 29—(Thanksgiving Day)
Dunbar Twp. High at Connellsville.

Pittsburgh lost to St. Louis again yesterday, the score being 3-2. New York also lost, being defeated by Brooklyn, 6-1. The Cincinnati Reds were also victims yesterday, losing to Chicago, 5-1.
